Instructions:

Use this form when you are too gutless to discuss your domestic issues in person.

To open a communication breakdown session, fill in your initial complaint below, with the name of the person to whom the complaint is directed (the directee). Ensure the language employed is sufficiently inflammatory to guarantee that the directee will also descend to your level of immaturity and therefore use this form.

The directee, or any other party, whether involved in the core dispute or not, may fill in their response, using the appropriate language, in the space provided. The more sarcastic, acerbic or witty the response, the better.

Attach additional sheets if necessary. Please refrain from the use of Post-it Notes.
